Resuscitation Officer Services

Over 20 years' experience in locum medical cover and Resuscitation Officer training.

Seamless locum medical cover for continuity of care

Struggling to cover for short or long term sickness or maternity leave in your hospital department? Do you need additional experienced staff to assist with an ever-growing clinical workload?

Asgard Dynamics have a variety of clinicians, the vast majority of whom are fully trained Resuscitation Officers, who can work alongside your own hospital staff in a patient facing capacity.

From nurses and paramedics through to ODPs, ENPs, ANPs, senior consultants, anaesthetists and more, we can provide people with the skill set and experience you need, for however long you need them.

Our locum clinicians will seamlessly integrate with your current staff, hitting the ground running to ensure continuity of efficient patient care.

All our clinicians benefit from the most current, evidence-based training, to ensure your patients receive the best possible treatment. They undertake regular blood tests as standard and are fully vaccinated to ensure they're at clinical readiness whenever you need them.

We also have the capacity to assist should you require out of hours locum medical cover. Please contact us for further information.

How can we assist with Resuscitation Officer training?

In addition to providing locum medical cover, Asgard Dynamics also have over two decades of experience in providing evidence-based resuscitation training.

Our highly skilled medical experts and senior educators make us ideally placed to meet your educational requirements.

Asgard Dynamics' immersive resuscitation training uses proven treatment methodologies, with a strong emphasis on empowering our students. Our stress inoculation training promotes confident and calm responses when emergency situations are faced.

We can assist with your training needs in any of the following three ways:

Option 1: Dedicated patient care Our clinicians can attend your department to expertly assist with patient care. Meanwhile, your own Resuscitation Officers will be free to train your staff. Find out more	Option 2: Bolster your numbers If you don't have enough available staff to ensure appropriate instructor to student ratios, we can provide additional instructors to ensure your annual training figures are met. Get more information	Option 3: Take care of everything Your own Resuscitation Officers can continue to deal with the clinical aspects of running your department, whilst our highly competent clinicians train your staff. Contact us today
---	---	---

Should you choose either of the latter options, just let us know your training needs – including dates and the number of people you need training - and we'll take care of everything. We'll even bring our own AV equipment.

We can conduct an analysis of your training needs if required, to identify any gaps in knowledge. This is in addition to organising and carrying out the training itself, including any statutory BLS or ILS courses.

FAQs

What level of clinicians can you provide for maternity and sickness cover?

We can provide clinicians of all levels to cover maternity or sickness leave in your hospital department. These include paramedics, nurses, ODPs, ANPs, ENPs and even anaesthetists and senior consultants.

All our staff have undertaken the latest training, with blood tests and vaccinations up to date. This ensures that they are ready to slot seamlessly into your team at a moment's notice.

How can Asgard Dynamics help my hospital department to meet annual training figures?

Is your hospital department struggling to meet its training targets, due to you not having enough Resuscitation Officers available to train your other staff?

Here at Asgard Dynamics, we understand the importance of appropriate instructor to student ratios. That's why we offer additional Resuscitation Officers to assist in training your staff. This is just one of the options we provide to ensure your department meets its annual training figures.

Other options for Resuscitation Officer training include:

- Freeing up your Resuscitation Officers to deal with the day-to-day clinical aspects of running your hospital ward, by taking care of all your training needs ourselves. We can even undertake a training needs analysis to identify gaps in knowledge and tailor our medical training courses accordingly.
- Freeing up your Resuscitation Officers to undertake your department's training needs themselves, whilst our highly skilled clinicians handle all aspects of patient care.

If you're unsure which option would be right for your department, we'd be happy to discuss your requirements in more detail.

Give us a call on 0800 9991054 or send us a message using our online contact form and we will be in touch with a well-informed response as soon as possible.
