Resuscitation Training

Find out more about our resuscitation training courses below.

Resuscitation Training Delivered By Medical Professionals

Asgard Dynamics offer evidence-based resuscitation training for both adult and paediatric patients, provided to medical professionals, by medical professionals.

With over two decades of experience in resuscitation training, and the benefit of highly skilled medical experts and senior mentors on our team, we are perfectly placed to meet your educational needs.

Our interactive resuscitation training uses proven treatment methodologies, with a strong focus on student empowerment. We believe in stress inoculation training - inducing the stressor response to enable our students to perform confidently and calmly in real-world emergency situations.

The focus of our resuscitation courses

The Individual, The Team

At Asgard Dynamics, we aim to develop the skills of individuals and improve the solidarity of teams.

We teach our students to approach any situation in a safe and methodical manner. This enables them to cope with a variety of clinical situations and environments.

Team development is something we're extremely passionate about. We encourage collaboration within teams, establishing strong cohesive units. This is proven to directly impact patient survival and reduce overall morbidity and mortality.

Empowerment

We empower our students to confidently cope with situations that they may have previously thought impossible.

With a strong focus on immersive, real-world scenarios - which really are as close to the real thing as you can get - we demonstrate how to deal with any clinical situation as it progresses.

This covers every stage of an incident, from the initial call for help to the prolonged care environment that will be required in the hours that follow.

A summary of our resuscitation courses

Our ALS and EPALS courses - valid for four years - are suitable for medical professionals who need to be competent in Advanced Life Support. This includes doctors, nurses and paramedics working in acute care areas within hospitals, or on resuscitation, medical emergency, or critical care outreach teams.

Alternatively, our ILS course – valid for one year - is ideal for any healthcare professional who may have to act as the first responder in an emergency. This includes GPs, dentists, police, and prison officers.

We provide our dynamic and interactive resuscitation courses to both individuals and teams, and even offer specialist and tailored courses, to meet the needs of every client.

Additionally, we can work alongside established training companies to bolster their capacity. So, whatever your resuscitation training needs, don't hesitate to get in touch. You can give us a call on 0800 999 1054, or send a message using our online contact form, and a well-informed member of our team will be in touch as soon as possible.
